FROM THE METROPOLITAN.

THE EDUCATION OF LOVE.

BY S. WILD.

Young Love was once, (long ere the seige of Troy)
A very beautiful but simple boy;
His blue eyes sparkled, and his heart was light,
His flowing ringlets were as sun-beams bright—
But then the child could neither read nor write.

'Tis true, whilst roaming on his buoyant wing,
He sought and found a joy in every thing;
True, that his bosom would enraptur'd thrill,
When by the fountain or the tinkling rill,
He met the wood-nymphs, or the Grecian maids,
Or rambled with them through the forest shades;
But then, alas! the little urchin knew
Not even how to pen a billet-doux;
A simple flower, cull'd for the maiden's breast,
One half of that which he would say express;
His eyes most eloquently told the rest.

Minerva mark'd all this—and undertook,
(Ah! fatal task,) to teach the boy his book.
She first his mother sought; "Madam," said she,
"Pity it is so sweet a boy should be
So sad a dunce!"
Venus confess'd it was, indeed, too bad,
And begg'd Minerva would instruct the lad
At once.

Then Love was torn from his wild haunts away,
And nymph and maiden mourn'd him many a day,
With all the pathos of the rustic lay,
Sung to the sighing breeze and moaning brook,
Meantime the boy wept o'er the hated book,
Envying the bird that past, on wing so free,
To the green woodlands, where he longed to be,
Instead of moping there o'er A, B, C.

In vain he weeps, in vain remission asks,
For one short moonlight ramble from his tasks;
The stern Minerva, with an angry look,
Boxes his ears and bids him mind his book.

At length, (so mystic hieroglyphs relate,)
Young Love became submissive to his fate;
Grew fond of learning—but, alas! he grew
Proud, insincere, and avaricious too!

Some wood-nymphs found him studying 'neath an oak,
But not one smile could all their smiles provoke,
He ask'd them, if they took him for a fool?
Toss'd his proud head, and hurried back to school.

Beauty, however, soon reclaim'd the boy,
Back to his former woodland haunts of joy;
But he had learnt, alas! to cheat her ear
With well-feign'd fantasies of hope and fear,
And seeming fonder, was much less sincere.

But oh, still worse, was that sad moment when
Minerva taught young Love to use his pen.

Farewell the token-flower—the speaking eye—
The ready blush that would reveal the lie;
His feelings, passions, now may all be told
On smooth white paper, with an edge of gold;
The cheated maidens, were they on the spot,
Might see him blush,—the paper tells it not;
Impassion'd words of feelings never felt
He uses now, the wood-nymphs' hearts to melt,
They read the soft epistle and believe,
Whilst the sly urchin titters in his sleeve.

"Lais, dear Lais, how shall I express,
My bleeding bosom's utter wretchedness!
I've had a hurt, it is, indeed, but slight—
But then, 'twill keep me from the grove to-night.
Lais, dear Lais, say, can words reveal
The pangs which those who love in absence feel?"
This clos'd; dispatch'd—next minute you behold
The little knave another sheet unfold;
Begging "fair Daphne will in pity leave
Her distaff, for a moonlight walk that eve!"

Ah me! it was a sorry moment when
The urchin Love first learnt to hold a pen.

Reading and writing quite enough had been
To spoil the simple boy, as we have seen;
But Wisdom's goddess quite to ruin brought him
Ere she had done! Arithmetic she taught him!
From that time forth, no more Young Love was young!
Dollars and cents were ever on his tongue;
No more he woos the bright ey'd nymphs and maids
To ev'ning rambles in the forest shades;
He better loves beside their sires to keep,
And learn how many kine, how many sheep,
How much in houses, and how much in lands,
Will be the premium with their daughter's hands.
In vain hath Lais sparkling eyes for him,
Beside her father's gold they look but dim;
In vain for him hath Daphne raven locks,
He better loves her father's fleecy flocks;
Nay, homely Phillis hath the master-charm,
Her sire possessing much the largest farm.
Yes! that sweet boy, so innocent and fair,
With laughing eyes and flowing sunny hair—
He of the buoyant wing and joyous heart,
Whose presence could more happiness impart,
To humble cottage, and to daisied field,
Than wealth can purchase or vain fashion yield;
Minerva spoilt him—grown both proud and witty,
He soon forsook the country for the city.
There you will find him; either with his scholars
Valuing beauty—that is, counting dollars,
Or else upon the 'Change his nets are spread,
To catch some rich old Jew, whose daughter he would wed.

Washington, January 4.

It is with feelings of no ordinary regret we announce to our readers the death of our highly venerated fellow citizen, JOHN GRAY BLOUNT, Esquire, who expired without a struggle or a groan, at a little before 2 o'clock this morning in the 81st year of his age. All who were honored with an acquaintance of the deceased, can bear ready testimony to his inestimable worth and most respected character. A kinder or more affectionate parent never lived, a more sincere friend, or a more disinterested benefactor. He has left a numerous and afflicted family to mourn their bereavement, and a void in society which his surviving friends and the community at large will feel is not readily to be supplied. Mr. B. was one of that gallant band who effected, in the arduous struggle of '76, the establishment of our National Independence, and with it the political blessings we have since experienced; and he remained through life the honest, consistent and incorruptible patriot.

The Savannah Republican of the 5th inst. says, it is generally supposed the Cotton crop of Georgia will fall short from 30 to 50,000 bags.

Volunteers against the Nullifiers—The Reading (Penn.) battalion of volunteers have offered their services to the President, in case it should be necessary to use force against the Nullifiers. This example would be immediately followed, were their services wanted by many a corps of volunteers in New England.—Con. Paper.

FROM THE CHARLESTON COURIER.

We lay before our readers this morning, the Replevin Act passed by the Legislature of this State to prevent the collection of the Federal Revenue in our ports. It will be seen that it does not prohibit the Merchant from paying duties on importations, but merely affords him a chance, and that a very doubtful one, incumbered with a tedious and expensive litigation, of evading a compliance with his obligation to the Government. We feel no apprehension that any Merchant will risk the loss of credit, consequent upon engaging in any such controversy. The Lawyers who made this new road to commercial wealth, will be left to travel it alone.

CAPTIONS OF THE LAWS,

Enacted by the General Assembly of N. Carolina, at its session in 1832—33.

PUBLIC ACTS.

1. An act declaratory of the law now in force, giving to the County Courts of the several Counties within this State the power to alter and fix separate places of election.—[Declaring that the county courts, a majority of the acting Justices being present, have the power to alter, fix, establish, discontinue or create anew separate places of election.]

2. Vesting the right of electing the clerks of the County and Superior Courts in the several Counties within this State in the free white men thereof. The bill to extend the jurisdiction and laws of the State over the Indian territory within her limits, was rejected on its second reading in the House of Commons, by a vote of 82 to 21.

We are gratified to state, that the bill proposing to reduce the salary of the Supreme Court Judges, has been indefinitely postponed, 59 to 54.

In the House of Commons, on the 4th, the bill to establish the Planters' Bank at Salisbury, was rejected, 55 to 53.

The House took up the Resolutions in relation to South Carolina, the question pending being on a motion for indefinite postponement of the 4th Resolution, made by Mr. Clarke of Beaufort. The debate on this motion was resumed and continued at great length: Messrs. Long, Clarke, O'Brien, S. T. Sawyer, F. A. Sawyer, Outlaw and Lewis Thompson advocated the motion for postponement.—Messrs. Daniel, Eccles and Mc Leod opposed the motion, and in the course of their remarks, reviewed with much severity the doctrine of Nullification and its revolutionary character. During the discussion, Messrs. O'Brien and Outlaw moved amendments as substitutes for the Resolution, which were rejected, the object of which was to manifest a more conciliatory and sympathizing spirit towards South Carolina. But the majority was inflexible on every proposition calculated in the least to impair the force of the original Resolution. The motion to postpone was rejected 98 to 21. The Yeas and Nays were taken in the course of the discussion nearly a dozen times, but the vote on every test question was so nearly the same, that it is only necessary to publish them once. On the final adoption of the Resolution, the vote stood as follows:

FOR THE RESOLUTION—Messrs. Abernathy, Allison, Arrington, Baker, Barringer, Blowe, Boddie, Bragg, Brower, Burgin, Burns, Cansler, Carter, Clayton, Cloman, Courts, Cromwell, Cunningham, Cuthbertson, Daniel, Davidson, Dockery, Doherty, Eccles, Edmonston, Enloe, Foscue, Glass, Gillespie, Grady, Graves, Gwynn, Hammond, Hardison, Harper, Hart, Hartly, Hill, Hinton, Horton, Hurst, Irion, Jarvis, J. B. Jones, Robert Jones, Jordan, Judkins, Laspeyre, Lee, Ledford, Little, Locke, Loudermilk, Lyon, Mangum, Marstellar, Maultsby, Montgomery, Murray, McClees, McLaurin, McLeod, McNeill, Nelson, Peeples, Park, Pearson, Poindexter, Polk, Potts, Rand, Relfe, Ridley, Roberts, Settle, Shepard, Sherwood, Sloan, Skinner, Smith, Spruill, Stallings, Stephens, Sumner, Thomas, G. A. Thompson, Tillet, Wadsworth, Ward, Watson, Weaver, Welch, Willey, Wiseman, Witcher, Allen W. Wooten, Word, Ziglar.

AGAINST IT—Messrs. Clark, Craige, Dews, Faddis, Gee, Guthrie, Irvine, Lancaster, Long, McMillan, Norman, Outlaw, O'Brien, Pierse, S. T. Sawyer, Simmons, L. Thompson, Townsend, Tunstall, Waddell, Whitaker.

The fifth and sixth Resolutions passed almost without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Parke submitted the following resolutions, which were laid on the table, the casting vote of the Speaker, to wit:

Resolved, That equality of representation is essential to the existence of a truly republican government. That there is gross inconsistency in professing to admire and sustain a system which practically withhold from it, its main and essential property; That the ratio of representation in the legislative body of N. Carolina is palpably unjust and consequently unjust; That the interest of a fraction of a community should be overlooked when it conflicts with that of the whole body; That experience hath shown that no State can attain to any great degree of general prosperity without having within her borders one or more large and flourishing towns; That in the present languishing condition of North Carolina it behoves her citizens of all classes to unite their energies in endeavoring to rear within her limits a large and flourishing commercial town; That the location of the seat of government at some convenient and proper place, would be highly conducive to this great end; That the election of Chief Magistrate of this State ought of right to be made by the direct vote of the people, and that he should be elected for a longer time than one year; That to correct these evils and bring about these advantageous results, a convention of the people is absolutely necessary, and it is therefore recommended to the people, at the next annual election, to determine by ballot whether or not a convention should be held to consider of and determine upon these highly important subjects.

The bill to exempt Teachers and Superintendents of Schools from Militia duty, was rejected.

The Committee on Education reported against the expediency of establishing a Central School for the education and preparation of Instructors of elementary Schools, on the ground of the insufficiency of the Literary Fund.

From the Raleigh Register.

CONVENTION QUESTION.—A numerous and highly respectable meeting of the members of the Legislature, friendly to a revision of the Constitution of the State, was held at the Commons Hall on Friday night last. Gen. Polk of Rowan, presided, and S. Patterson and W. J. Cowan, acted as Secretaries. Resolutions were introduced by Mr. Dews, which elicited an able and animated discussion, not as to what was necessary to be done, but how it should be effected. Finally, it was resolved, that recommended to the Sheriffs and other officers at the elections in August next, to receive the votes of all free citizens entitled to vote for members of the House of Commons, for or against amending the Constitution, and to make a return of the votes to the Governor, who is requested to communicate them to the Legislature.

Richmond M. Pearson, of Rowan, Thomas Dews of Rutherford, and Gen. Saml. Carruthers and William H. Haywood, jun. of Raleigh City, have been appointed to draft an Address to the People of the State, explanatory of the objects of the meeting and of the amendments which the friends of a Convention desire; and a Committee of Correspondence has been appointed in each county, to circulate the Address.

We have received an official account of the proceedings, and will, with cheerfulness, give them a place in our next.

Nullification in North Carolina.—In the predicted in our last that the Resolutions announcing Nullification, would be sustained by as triumphant a majority in the House of Commons, as it had been in the Senate. It will be seen by a reference to the Yeas and Nays, that only 22 voted against it. Of these, several disavowed the doctrine, alleging that their vote was influenced by the consideration that no action of the Legislature upon the subject was called for, and had been of its character extra judicial. It is due to those gentlemen of the minority who voted in debate, to state, that they sustained their peculiar notions with an ability and zeal worthy of a better cause. They contested every inch of ground, and adopted every method which ingenuity could devise to render the expression of the Legislature less decisive in its language, and more palatable to S. Carolina—but on every question where the principle was involved, the vote was most uniformly the same. Even the amendment protesting against the employment of force by the General Government, was rejected by nearly the same vote that the Resolution was adopted.

Thus has North Carolina emphatically spoken out, and by this one act, acquires additional claim to the character of a consistent truly Republican and patriotic State.

Ral. Reg.

The "Experimental Rail Road" of Marshall City is now in full operation, and bids fair to prove a successful experiment.—Crowds of visiters are daily attracted by the novelty of the thing, and a handsome Car affords them the means of a delightful ride. The receipts from this source, we understand, have been considerable. The completion of the Road in this way constitutes a new era in the history of our City, and is an undertaking honorable to the enterprize of our citizens, and highly creditable to Capt. Bingham and Mr. Wheeler, the Engineer and Superintendant of the Work. It is peculiarly a source of gratification and pride, that Raleigh should have been the first place in the State, where the advantages of Rail roads have been practically demonstrated.—Ral. Reg.

Silas Wright has been chosen a Senator of the United States from the State of N. York, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Marcy, now Governor. (Mr. Wright was formerly a respectable Representative in Congress, and is a confident personal and political friend of the Vice President elect.—Nat. Int.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

With the advice and consent of the Senate.

Saul Alley, of New York, Hertmen Kh[illegible] Henry D. Gilpin, and John T. Sullivan, of Philadelphia, and Hugh McEldery, of Baltimore, to be Directors of the Bank of the United States for the year 1833.

OBSERVER.

FAYETTEVILLE:

TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 15, 1833.

☞ The Observer Office has been removed to the large Room over the Book Store, opposite the new Lafayette Hotel Buildings. The Editor may generally be found at the Book Store.

We have the pleasure of presenting the Observer to-day in its enlarged form, and improved appearance. In consequence of a misapprehension of our wishes, the materials obtained from the North do not allow of quite so great an increase of size as we intended; but still, as the reader will perceive on comparison, it is considerable, and we trust will be satisfactory—especially to those who take no interest in advertisements, and have heretofore grudged the space they occupied.

The Legislature adjourned on Thursday evening last, after a session of 54 days; having passed 20 public, and 147 private acts, and 51 resolutions, a complete list of which will be found in this paper.

It will be seen that a Bank has at last been chartered. Of many of the provisions of the act we are as yet ignorant, but will take the earliest opportunity of laying them before our readers. There is one feature, however, which inclines us to the belief, that the State will have all the honor and profit of the undertaking to itself. There may, possibly, be such a redundancy of capital in the State as to induce its possessors to pay a tax of one per cent. for the privilege of investing it;—but such is not our belief. Certain it is, that the present Banks would not accept of a renewal of their charters with such a provision in them. We rejoice, however, that a Bank has been created, for one has undoubtedly become necessary, to take the place of the present. It has long been our opinion, that the State should have but little interest in, or controul of, Banking Institutions: and if we now see no reason to change that opinion, we can, and do, sincerely wish well to the "Bank of North Carolina," and shall rejoice if it make no returns to its proprietors but such as will advance its own character and their interests.

The Express.—Not a word has yet transpired in relation to the object of the Express from Washington to Charleston. It has not even been mentioned in the Washington City papers, so far as the mails have brought them, and in Charleston it appears to have excited little attention.

The Episcopal Church in this town was consecrated by Bishop Ives, on Sunday last, the Rev. Messrs. Cairns of Wilmington, Marshall of Cheraw, and Baxton of this place, present and assisting. The services were solemn and impressive. On Sunday evening, the rite of confirmation was administered to 18 coloured persons. On this evening the Bishop will administer the same holy rite to a number of white persons.

Fire Companies.—An alarm of fire yesterday, disclosed the fact, to which we would call attention, that there has been no Company organized to take charge of the new Engine, though it is now several weeks since it arrived. Its services were fortunately not needed, but if they had been, could they have been obtained without the aid of a regularly organized company? Holders of property! look to it.

☞ We shall be glad to have a moment's conversation with our correspondent "Many," previous to publishing his communication; or an opportunity to write him a line, if he would prefer to remain unknown.

We omitted to mention in our last, that the following gentlemen have been elected Magistrate of Police and Commissioners for the ensuing year:

JAMES SEAWELL, Magistrate of Police.

Sampson Boon, Commissioner for Ward	No. 1
James Baker,	No. 2
Joseph Arey,	No. 3
Lewis Brown,	No. 4
Duncan Smith,	No. 5
Joshua Carmon,	No. 6
James Kyle,	No. 7

The extreme irregularity of the mails would be a fruitful source of complaint, if complaint would do any good. But it does no good; we therefore only mention it now, for the purpose of stating, that the Charleston papers received here on Friday evening last, brought New York dates of the preceding Saturday evening, which, although due by the Northern mail of Thursday, noon, did not arrive here until yesterday. They were carried to Charleston in 78 hours, by the Steam Packet David Brown, which has performed her trips with a regularity and expedition altogether unprecedented.

We have received the first number of The People's Press, published in Wilmington, by Messrs. Fanning & Hall, and edited by Messrs. Fanning & Loring. It is a large and very neat paper, and will doubtless be edited with ability. It supports the administration.

The Wilmington papers again call the attention of their country readers to the large number of arrivals at that port, and the consequent animated demand for Naval Stores, Lumber, Staves, Shingles, &c. all of which are wanted, immediately.

We have pleasure in stating, that the Commissioners appointed to superintend the building of the Capitol at Raleigh, have engaged Mr. Drummond, the architect who superintended the erection of the beautiful Episcopal Church in this town.

A more prompt, energetic, faithful and capable individual could not have been selected.

The Legislature of Virginia (or, rather, its House of Delegates,) was, at the latest accounts, still engaged in debate upon the report of the Committee of Federal Relations, (as it is termed,) not having come to any conclusion.

The Bank of Newbern has declared a dividend of twenty-five per cent. of its Capital Stock.

The U. S. Bank has declared a dividend of 3½ per cent. for the last half year.

The Wilmington Advertiser mistakes our meaning. We did not think it strange that Messrs. Webster and Otis should approve of the President's opinions, when they are such as those gentlemen have advocated all their lives. Our wonder was that the President should advance such doctrines as they could approve of; that such a political millenium should have arrived as to bring Gen. Jackson, Mr. Webster, and Mr. Otis, Republicans, Federalists, Hartford Conventionists, Jackson men and Clay men, all to the support of the same doctrines upon the vital principles of the government. Is it not matter of astonishment? And what we meant by the idea that the number of those who disapprove of the Proclamation would be increased by the enthusiasm with which it was received by the Federalists, &c., was, that the party calling itself Republican would be very apt to repudiate doctrines so exactly similar to those it has always been contending against, as held by the Federalists.

There are several other matters in the Advertiser article that we feel disposed to notice, if time permitted. We will say, however, that we consider ourself as entitled to better treatment from the Editor of the Advertiser than to be represented, either publicly or privately, as a nullifier. He will probably understand the allusion. We deny, as we have heretofore done, any faith in the doctrine of nullification. We deny both its correctness and its efficacy. We deny, too, that we have written or spoken any thing to justify such an imputation.

"The People's Press," also, copies our paragraph, and says, it "seems to be written in a spirit of no little exultation." The Editors are mistaken. It was only "a spirit of" truth that prompted it. The same Editors say, that not a single Jackson man, to their knowledge, in that quarter, dissents from the Proclamation. In this quarter, some of the most thorough-going Van Buren Jackson men, some who have never before, (at least for four years past) hesitated to swallow any thing from the Executive, do dissent from it.

Gen. Scott, of the U. S. Army, passed through Wilmington and Newbern, during the past week, on his return to the North.

The Harbour Master of Wilmington reports the arrival, during the month of Dec'r. of two Ships, fifty-four Brigs, and twenty-five Schooners,—in all, eighty-one, exclusive of coasters.

We are requested by a Merchant of Camden, S. C. to state, for the removal of erroneous impressions, that though there were a few days, lately, during which the Banks curtailed their discounts and produced a scarcity of money, yet that the merchants of that town are at this time well supplied with funds, and will pay as fair prices for produce as the state of the European markets will justify.

The gentleman who wrote us on this subject, complains that he has not received the Observer for three weeks past. We cannot account for the failure, as the packet has been regularly forwarded from this office.

Letters from Cincinnati state that there was a run upon the U. S. Branch Bank in that city, by the country people, who were induced to believe, by the President's Message, &c. that the Bank is insolvent. To protect itself, the Bank has been obliged to refuse the notes of the local Banks, to buy no drafts, and greatly to curtail its discounts. Great pecuniary distress was the result.

Congress.—In the Senate, on the 4th, Mr. Calhoun took his seat, and the following letter and enclosure were laid before that body by the Chair:

Department of State, 4th Jan. 1833.

Sir: The President has directed me to send to you for the information of the Senate the enclosed copy of a letter just received from John C. Calhoun, Esq., resigning his office as Vice President of the United States, the original of which letter, subscribed with his name, is deposited in this department, pursuant to the provisions of the act in such case provided.

Very respectfully, your most ob't serv't,
EDWARD LIVINGSTON.

To the President of the Senate.

Columbia, (S. C.) 28th Dec. 1832.

Sir: Having concluded to accept of a seat in the Senate, to which I have been elected by the Legislature of this State, I herewith resign the Office of Vice President of the United States.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,
J. C. CALHOUN.

Hon. E. Livingston, Secretary of State.

The House of Representatives has adopted a resolution, to lay aside, at the hour of 1 every day, all other business for the purpose of settling the Tariff question. The House was, in consequence, earnestly engaged in the discussion of Mr. Verplanck's bill.

The mails having failed so repeatedly, we have no regular account of the doings of Congress during the past week.

The House of Representatives, having entered into a bond, secured by sundry sets of Yeas and Nays, duly recorded in the Journals, to employ itself exclusively upon the Tariff until it comes to some determination in relation to it, yesterday set to work upon the bill reported by Mr. Verplanck, from the Committee of Ways and Means. What is to be the ultimate fate of this bill, we have already intimated, is a matter of doubt. We should be able perhaps to form something like a conjecture upon it, if we certainly knew what are the views of the Executive on the subject. On this point, however, there are various reports, and of course different opinions. One says, that, if the Message of the President and the Annual Treasury Report be consulted, it is clear that duties are to be taken off to the amount of six millions of dollars. Another says, that the President, in addition to his Proclamation, has orally declared his opinion to be, that the protective system ought not now to be impaired. Thus are we so confused by contrary reports and opposite opinions or declarations, that no man can certainly say what are the views of the Administration at this moment as to the Tariff.—Nat. Int. Jan. 9

Messrs. Calhoun, of South Carolina, and Rives, of Virginia, took their seats yesterday in the Senate of the United States, after their credentials had been read, and taking the usual oath to support the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Waggaman, of Louisiana, also attended. In the course of the day, the President, pro tem. communicated a letter from the Secretary of State, enclosing a copy of the letter of resignation of the office of Vice President of the United States from the Hon. John C. Calhoun, on file in that Department.—U. S. Telegraph.

From the United States Telegraph.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE.

Gen. Blair, of South Carolina, entered the theatre in this city, night before last, armed with four pistols and two dirks. During the progess of the play, he deliberately drew one of the pistols and fired it—the ball striking the stage very near where Mr. Palmer and Miss Jefferson were standing. The officers of the House threatening to remove him by force, he promised that, if they would permit him to remain, he would behave like a gentleman; but in a few minutes attempted to draw another pistol; being remonstrated with, he left the stage box, and took one of the front seats, where he deliberately drew another pistol, cocked and pointed it at the stage. The actors and the audience demanding it, he was then disarmed, and dragged by force from his seat; upon reaching the lobby, he drew off his coat and played the bully in the true  style!!

From the People's Press, (Wilmington.)

The subjoined is extracted from the letter of a gentleman whose position in the city of Charleston, enables him to form a correct judgment on the state of public feeling:

Charleston, Jan. 1st 1833.

"Fears were entertained by the lovers of good order, that the present state of things would not end without a collision between the State Rights and Union party, antecedent to any that could possibly take place between the State of So. Ca. and the General Government.

This, however, is no longer the case, for Nullification is fast on the decline and the period fast approaching, when the authors and supporters of this offspring of an unhallowed, unbounded ambition, will receive the hearty detestation of every honest citizen of the State.

Declarations are daily heard to escape numbers, that they have been deluded, in being taught that nullification was to prove peaceable, and that in time of civil commotion, they will act with the Union party.

Indeed, it is confidently believed, that the Union party, will put in the new members to the next Congress."

From the National Intelligencer.

The Tariff.—Our readers are already apprized that the subject of a proposed reduction of the Tariff is before both Houses of Congress, and that in the house of Representatives a bill has been matured for reducing it, to which the same zeal that procured the early report of it is now endeavoring to give an exclusive preference over all other objects of legislation. It is still doubtful however, we believe, whether any legislation will result from this agitation of the question. The view which is entertained of this subject by the friends of the Manufacturing interest in the East may be inferred in anticipation from the following extract of a letter from this city, which we do not hesitate to attribute to the pen of some Member of Congress from that quarter:

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BOSTON COURIER.

Washington City, Dec 27, 1832

The blow which I alluded to, in former communications, has fallen upon the North. If they did not behold the impending shock, it will now be felt. The Committee of Ways and Means reported a tariff bill this morning, which will prostrate our industry in manufactories and the mechanic arts.—Cottons, after 1834, as well as woollens, are to pay but 20 per cent.; and the minimum on cottons being also abolished, the protecting duty, instead of being from 7 to 8 cents per pound, will be only from 1 to 2. There is a duty again on coffee and tea, and that on silks is raised. This bill is to go into effect on the 4th of March, or in a little more than 60 days, if it passes, and there is but a slight hope of resisting it, for the Administration will urge it through, if possible. Thus the nullification is to be put down by yielding up the interest of the North. This is the practical commentary on the flourishing and high-sounding doctrine of the Proclamation. We are sold in the market, where Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Ohio, unexpectedly find themselves exposed and chalked on the back, as a part of the lot to be disposed of, alias knocked down at public, viz. political auction, to the lowest bidder. Now, we think, the current of events will not longer be mistaken; and so rapid is the tide ebbing that our craft will soon be aground, and incapable of ever getting afloat again; for it is a tide that knows no returning flood, but, like the Propontic, hurries onward into that great ocean of ignorance, where all our honors are to be sunk down, down to the unfathomed depths of oblivion.

To the subjoined very brief paragraph on this subject, which we find in the American Sentinel, (Philadelphia) of Saturday morning, we attach more consequence than if, from almost any other source, it were longer. The protective principle cannot be broken in upon, to the extent proposed by the bill now depending in the House of Representatives, without the aid of the friends of the Administration in Pennsylvania and New York. We consider the following paragraph as indicating, beyond doubt, that, on this point, they (or "many" of them,) have taken their stand:

FROM THE AMERICAN SENTINEL, JAN. 5.

The Tariff.—It is the opinion of gentlemen of the first intelligence at Washington, that the new Tariff will not pass. Many of the members of Congress who would cheerfully concede something to the times, think it goes too far and too abruptly.

FROM THE MILLEDGEVILLE FEDERAL UNION.

The Missionaries.—Their case in the Supreme Court, against the State of Georgia, has been terminated by their voluntary act, with the approbation of the Board of Missions, under which they hold their appointments, as missionaries. They have directed their counsel to prosecute their case no farther, and to make no motion in their behalf in court. As the State is no longer threatened with an attempt to coerce her, through the agency of the supreme court, she may now exercise her clemency, without an abandonment of any of her rights. The law against which the missionaries offended, no longer required by the policy of the state, has been repealed: the offence, of which they were convicted, is no longer known to our laws. The rights of the State have been triumphantly sustained; and the fruition of them is now realized by her children. As neither the honor nor the interest of the State requires a continuance of the punishment inflicted on the missionaries, we presume they will be treated with the forbearance and mildness, which become the character of a humane, generous, and magnanimous people.

FROM THE RICHMOND ENQUIRER.

News from Washington.—We have long and interesting letters from Washington.—We have no room for extracts—except the following, under date of the 28th, from a citizen of Virginia, who holds no office under the General Government.

"As to the Proclamation, the truth is, that the President having great and praise-worthy objects in view, DID NOT ATTEND SUFFICIENTLY TO THE DETAILS OF THE MESSAGE. There is no man, I sincerely believe, who would more strongly deprecate the inference which may be drawn from it, than he would; and IN HIS PRACTICAL ADMINISTRATION OF THE GOVERNMENT, IT WILL NEVER HAVE THE SLIGHTEST EFFECT. I should judge so from his measures, from his vetoes, from his late message to Congress, and his present declaration.—He deprecates the use of any other weapons against S Carolina, but those of the law administered through the courts. He says these are not only the most proper, but the most energetic measures, and it is only in the event of the free action of the court being obstructed by force, that he would resort to other means. He will repel, but not commence aggression. This being the case, as I know it is, all his acts heretofore tending to uphold Virginia doctrines and measures, and having in fact done more for them than any other man in America would have done, or would have dared to do—and there being the strongest reasons to believe that his administration will be conducted upon the same principles, is it right for Virginia to quarrel with him about two doctrinal points, or rather an argument, which I might perhaps say, IS THAT OF HIS SECRETARY."

FROM THE GLOBE.

"We regret to have seen in the Richmond Enquirer some countenance given to the idea that the President may not have considered with the care due to so important a measure as his Proclamation, all the consequences that legitimately flow from it. We feel authorized in saying that that document, both in its argument, and its practical views, reflects as truly the settled opinions of the President as any which has ever proceeded from him—and there is not one perhaps in the support of which any cabinet was ever more united than the present. At the same time we feel bound to say, that the paper is not considered by the President as authorizing those unfounded interpretations of its principles which tend to convert our federative system into a consolidated government. It would be unreasonable to expect any one to be answerable for all the inferences which others may draw, and which can in nowise be justified by the paper itself."

JUDGE BALDWIN.

It gives us pain to state, that it is reported at Washington, on the authority of letters from Pittsburg, that Mr. Justice Baldwin, of the Supreme Court, had become insane, and was confined in an Hospital. It was feared from the manner of the attack, and the symptoms, that it would prove a case of confirmed and incurable lunacy.—Alexandria Gaz.

WHIMSICAL MISTAKE.—An immense Treasury document was laid on the table of Members of Congress, a few days since, which was found to be a statement of the Monies received for various purposes at each Custom House during the last WAR! No one could tell what it was printed for, or who ordered it, until Mr. Senator Silsbee stated that he offered at the last session, a resolution which was adopted, requiring the Treasury officers to prepare and have printed a statement of the Custom House monies received during the last YEAR! By some slip of the pen the YEAR became WAR, and hence the mistake, which relieved Uncle Sam's pocket of a goodly number of dollars, and all for nought, unless it be that Duff Green, the Nullifying Printer to Congress, was benefitted to the tune of five hundred or a thousand dollars.

Passengers from Abroad.—The number of Passengers who have arrived at New York from foreign ports, during the past year, is stated to be 49,000! The number arrived in Canada probably exceeds that.

NEW NOVEL.—"Persuasion," a new Novel by Miss Austin, has just been published by Carey and Lea, of Philadelphia, and is highly spoken of. Indeed a work from the pen of a Lady whom Sir W. Scott ranks among the finest writers of the age, cannot but be popular.

A NEW ARTICLE.—Shoes made of cloth, saturated and painted with gum elastic, otherwise called India rubber, have been sent from New England into the New York market. The surface of the cloth is highly polished, somewhat resembling kid, and is said to be impervious to water. They are intended to supersede the common gum elastic shoes generally worn, both in utility and appearance.

WIFE FINED!—In Augusta, Maine, a Mrs. Richardson was indicted and convicted of beating her husband. She was fined, and ordered to give security TO KEEP THE PEACE for two years. Query, who pockets the fine—the husband or the State? If the latter, is not the husband (in law,) compelled to pay a fine as a punishment for his wife's giving him a severe drubbing?

The people of Paris, when they had conquered in the struggle of the three days, cried out to Lafayette, "If we must have a King, why not have you?" "To that question," said the General, "I made reply in the words of Marshal Saxe, when it was proposed to him to become a member of the French Academy—"That would suit me as well as diamond rings would suit a cat."

DIABOLICAL!—On Tuesday last as one of our most respectable citizens was walking home to his dinner, he was seized by that well known offender, W. R., who held him by the button, and for the space of three quarters of an hour, (without the slightest provocation) inflicted upon him a severe and uninterrupted succession of "delevish good stories," every one of which he had heard ten times before!

EFFECTS OF TIGHT LACING.—On Saturday an inquest was held at the King David, George street, Russel square, on the body of Jane Nicholson, aged 18; a fine young girl, the daughter of a respectable tradesman in the neighborhood. On Thursday afternoon she took tea at a relative's. Shortly after her return home, which was about nine o'clock the same evening, she complained of indisposition, and on being led into the yard for the benefit of the fresh air, she fell down in a state of insensibility. An attempt was made to give her relief by cutting open her stays which were found to be very tightly laced, and medical aid was procured, but she expired immediately. Mr. Slade, surgeon, stated that he had opened the body, and found the heart considerably enlarged, and the liver twice its proper size; he at the same time gave it as his opinion, that death was hastened by the extraordinary compression to which the vital functions had been subjected by tight lacing. Verdict —"Died by the visitation of God."
